

Spleen enlargement is also one of the high triglyceride symptoms and usually diagnosed on detailed examination of patient with high triglyceride levels. Abdominal x-rays and ultrasound are used to confirm the diagnosis.